THE SPALDING

TRADE MARK, QUALITY AND SELLING POLICY CONSTITUTE THE SOLID FOUNDATION OF THE SPALDING BUSINESS

SPALDING FALL AND WINTER CATALOGUE

1920

TO OUR CONSUMER FRIENDS

MAY we ask your consideration of the dealers who handle Spalding Athletic Goods? They are the cream of the business—the most reliable and progressive, the fairest minded and most upright. When you see the Spalding Trade-Mark displayed by a dealer, you may feel perfectly confident that in dealing with him you are going to be satisfied, because in taking up the sale of the Spalding line he, at the same time, subscribes to the doctrine of positive satisfaction to the customer—the keystone of the whole Spalding selling policy.

The Spalding Trade-Mark is registered in the United States Patent Office, and is a well known trade-mark of the goods produced by this and the various subsidiary companies, all of which are warranted.

Favor the Spalding dealer because when you purchase athletic goods you expect to use them for more than a moment, and as you take up athletics for your pleasure and physical benefit, you want to assure yourself the equipment you use is right in every particular that makes for good service and the correct athletic need. The Spalding dealer will give you good advice about your athletic outfit; he will help you out when you need something special, and, best of all, he will see that you get the best athletic equipment made, and at fair prices.

QUALITY

QUANTITY is the first and cardinal principle of the Spalding business. This has never been forgotten. It has been the idea that has been driven home most strongly by the founders of this business in their talks and instructions to factory managers. It is the promise that has been made to every man sent out on the road and to every salesman placed in a Spalding store, a promise that when they make a statement to a customer that Spalding quality is best, they will never have to take their word back—the Spalding guarantee meaning that no trouble or expense will be spared in producing every article bearing the Spalding Trade-Mark, the best that can be produced—best material, best workmanship, best design all tending to make in each article put out by A. G. Spalding & Bros., Spalding Quality, as representing the best made anywhere.

Princeton, N. J., March 1, 1920.

A. G. Spalding & Bros.,
121-123 Nassau Street,
New York City.

The vote of the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League, based upon a test of sample balls submitted by the principal manufacturers in the country, resulted in the selection of the Spalding No. M ball as the official ball for the League.

Very sincerely yours,

Joseph E. Ruff

President Intercollegiate
Basket Ball League.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago the Secretary of the Athletic League of Young Men's Christian Associations of North America, the late Luther Gulick, ordered from A. G. Spalding & Bros., balls for a new game that had been invented by Dr. Naismith, and in which both he and Dr. Gulick were much interested in developing as an ideal athletic indoor game. We worked with Dr. Gulick to perfect a ball that would be the best for such a game and our No. M Official Basketball was the result. This ball was adopted originally as official by the Y. M. C. A., in 1896, becoming the original and official ball, and has been used in every important match game since. To-day the No. M ball, with case of genuine English leather (tanned in the Spalding tannery, Leeds, England), is the best ball that has ever been made for basketball, and it is the official ball because of the most significant adoption that it is possible to secure—the adoption of use. It is used to-day, as it has been during the past twenty-five years, in every important game both here and abroad.

The Athletic League OF

Young Men's Christian Associations of North America

Springfield, Mass.
Sept. 9, 1896.

Messrs. A. G. Spalding & Bros.

Dear Sirs:

I am authorized to inform you that the Governing Committee of the Athletic League has decided to adopt your Basketball and Goal as the Official Basketball and Goal for the coming year, and also to request you to publish the Official Basketball Rules.

I am,

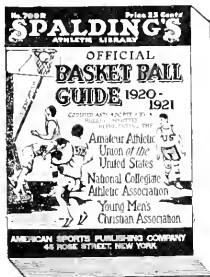

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) Luther Gulick,
Secretary.

THE OFFICIAL BOOKS OF THE GAME

No. 700R. Spalding's Official Basketball Guide. This is the official book of the game, containing the rules as adopted by a Rules Committee representing the Amateur Athletic Union, National Collegiate Athletic Association and Young Men's Christian Association. Among the contents are: reviews of the past season; basketball articles from all sections of the country; list of approved officials.

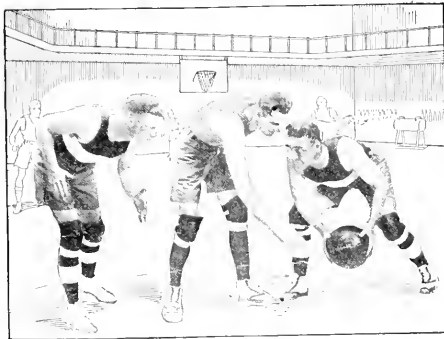

The book is divided into three parts: one devoted to the A. A. U., one to the N. C. A. A., and one to the Y. M. C. A. Oswald Tower, representing the N. C. A. A., is the editor-in-chief.

The official rules, having their own binding, are so arranged in the Guide that they can be easily detached from the book for convenient use by coaches or officials. This year's Guide contains all the features which have made it so popular in past years, with such changes in the rules for the current season as decided upon by the rules committee. In addition, questions and answers, based on the principal technical points that may arise in a game are included and help to render easy the interpretations of the code. All interested in the game should have a copy of the Guide. Illustrated throughout with pictures of prominent teams and officials. Copy, 25c.

No. 193. How to Play Basketball. The contents are: Technique of basket shooting; shooting from the foul line; catching and passing the ball; the selection of forwards, centers and guards; team work and formations from the center; training a team; formations for putting ball in play from out of bounds; the position style of game; duties of the captain; duties of the non-area; duties of the coach; the grounds; how to officiate; how to score basketball. Copy, 10c.

No. 7A. Spalding's Official Women's Basketball Guide. The contents include the official rules, samples of score sheets; diagram of field of play; questions and answers for officials; numerous articles of special bearing on the women's game by prominent authorities; diagrams and photographs showing the proper method of guarding, throwing and handling the ball, and illustrations of many girls' teams. Copy, 25c.

The Spalding No. 100 Basket Ball Goals

No. 100
Pat. Aug. 1, 1916.

No. 100. The Spalding No. 100 goal made under the Schommer patent, dated Aug. 1, 1916, No. 1,193,024 is the outcome of constant efforts to make a goal without the side braces, and yet rigid and firm enough to stand rough usage. It is made of a two piece malleable iron bracket and a steel ring. It is fastened with large plate washers.

The elimination of the side braces does away with the hazard of hitting them in "close up shots"; of deflecting the ball at any angle, making the judge of the rebound a rank guess; of slowing up the game by the ball lodging between the braces and the back board, of stopping the game due to a broken side brace; and the shifting of the braces to all kinds of angles when they work loose.

The bracket gives a large bearing surface which gives the goal far more rigidity and strength than the old types. The bracket is mathematically constructed so as to conform with the rules and yet no ball thrown for the goal can be deflected by the bracket. It is fool proof from hitting it with a medicine ball to using it as a horizontal bar.

Copyright, 1918, by F. W. Ruben, New York.

An athletic field badly designed or constructed tends to lessen interest, and as in many cases it is difficult to obtain the information locally, we present herewith a sample diagram. This track was designed for the 1916 national championships of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, and is situated in Weequahic Park, Newark, N. J. The arrangement was conceded by leading athletic authorities to be ideal, and the fact that a number of new American records were established, testifies to the speed and construction of the track. The track was designed and laid out by Mr. Frederick W. Ruben of New York, Secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States. Mr. Ruben, who is a civil engineer and surveyor, and has had many years' experience in the construction of athletic tracks.

An athletic field can be laid out on almost any level area and while no hard and fast rule can be laid down as to the selection of a plot, nevertheless if the ground is lush and dry a better result will be obtained.

It is generally conceded that a running track measuring four laps to a mile is the most popular size for outdoor sports. In addition to the track events proper, pole vaulting and the jumps may be contested without interruption, while the field competitions—javelin, discus, shot, hammer and the heavy weight—can be carried on within sight of the spectators and with safety to contestants and officials. A very satisfactory base ball diamond can be laid out within the limits of the track, and the space is ideal for intercollegiate and soccer foot ball. Outdoor basketball is practicable, while permanent tennis courts also can be included.

The expense of construction of a running track has deterred many establishments from attempting to build one, while others have been failures from the first, owing to faulty construction. A glance at the cross section will call attention to the inexpensive and light, springy nature of the track as against the heavy, macadam construction so often employed. An all cinder track is absolutely worthless. The cinders will not pack, they tear up easily, and it is the hardest kind of a track to keep in condition.

The infield, from curb to curb, is 212 feet wide, about 30 feet wider than the track in the famous Harvard Stadium. The turns are not as sharp as in the latter and the tangents are about 108 yards long. The entire track, which is spirit level throughout, except for the slight banking on the turns, is 24 feet wide, permitting six lanes for the sprints and five regulation width hurdles. It has a 220 yard straight-away, the 440 yards was run with one turn and the 880 yards with two turns. The main seating accommodations are along the 220 yard straightaway. The jump pits are located directly opposite the stand and about 15 feet inside of the curb, affording the greatest number of spectators an excellent view. This arrangement is preferable to having all of these events crowded at one end of the infield. The locations of the weight events are distributed about the infield and do not interfere with each other or place the officials or spectators in jeopardy from miscuecated throws.

After a track has been built it should not be allowed to run down, constant attention being necessary to keep it up to a high standard of efficiency. It is simply money wasted to build an athletic track and then expect it to keep in condition without any further attention. A groundsman should be employed, whose duty it should be to care for the track exclusively. In dry weather it should be sprinkled every day or two and gone over daily, scraped and rolled, and all uneven surfaces brought up to a level. The best made tracks will develop these depressions and the best way to discover them is to go out on the track immediately after a rainstorm and note where the puddles occur. Throw into each puddle a block of wood, to serve as a marker when the water has disappeared. These imperfections should have immediate attention. It is also a good plan to have several loads of the finest sieved cinders on hand, which should be worked in from time to time with the top dressing, rolled, scraped and watered.

THE GAME OF INDOOR GOLF

Indoor Golf is the best possible substitute for the real game that can be found. It is played with the same clubs and balls as used out of doors. The shots are played with the same amount of strength, and a player is thus able, by keeping in practice all the year round, to improve his or her game. The No. 1 and No. 2 Indoor Nets (see diagrams) show the distances to be made with each club in each pocket.

You can take the score card of any course and, by changing the last figure to a 5 or an 0 to conform with the figures on the net, will make it possible to reach the green in one, two, or three shots. The distances count to the edge of the green. For instance, the first hole is 475 yards long. We will say that on your first shot with a driver you strike in the center pocket, this gives you 200 yards for your first stroke. Your next stroke will be played with a brassie and, if you hit this ball into the top net, you are given 100 yards for this stroke. You now have 175 yards to the edge of the green and you have several different places to play for. Your choice would probably be a cleek in the top center pocket and, if this is made, you are now on the edge of the green, and placing your ball on the 15-foot mark you putt for a four.

Hole No. 2 is 355 yards in length; your first shot strikes in the left center pocket, or 180 yards in one stroke. This leaves you 155 yards to go, and in your attempt to play a mid iron in the top center pocket, the ball strikes the top right hand pocket, giving you a total of 325 yards. It is now necessary to play a mashie shot into the pocket marked 4 feet, 9 feet and 15 feet putt, to determine how far from the hole you stand to putt. The No. 2 Indoor Net is played the same as the No. 1, except that you play the mashie to determine how far you stand away to putt within 60 yards instead of 120, as on the No. 1 net.

RULES FOR INDOOR GOLF

D---DRIVER The ball must strike a pocket without glancing from side
B---BRASSIE nets or hitting the floor. If a ball strikes a pocket and glances into the pocket above it, it counts in later, but if it strikes into pocket below, it counts in former.
C---CLEEK If ball strikes top net with driver, brassie, cleek or mid iron, 100 yards distance is allowed. If ball strikes top net with mashie, the shot is allowed, providing the ball hits an approaching pocket. It is not necessary for the ball to stay in the pocket wherever it strikes to count. If the ball strikes near a seam, and any doubt arises as to which pocket the ball hits, pocket of highest value counts.

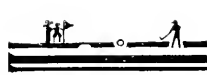

No. 2 Net

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ERECTION OF INDOOR GOLF NETS

First, hang the back driving canvas by ropes from the ceiling leaving about three inches lying on the floor. There should be at least one and one-half feet between the driving canvas and the back wall, and at least two feet away from the side walls; if there is more than one net, they should be two or three feet apart. The side and top nets are then hooked to the back driving canvas and attached to the ceiling. Leave about a foot of these nets lying on the floor so that there is plenty of slack to stop a rebound of the ball. The rubber mat should be nailed on a board and then nailed to the floor about twenty three feet from the back driving net. Lay Putting Canvas on the floor, tack it down, and cut a hole in the floor about three feet from the end nearest the net. Make a mixture of sand and oil, seeing that the sand is thoroughly dry. Cover the putting canvas with this mixture and it will make the best possible putting.

SPALDING KRO-FLITE GOLF IRONS

Probably the greatest difference between the average amateur and professional golfer lies in the latter's ability to fit the club to the shot. We all know how difficult it is to navigate the half shots, and how, in the majority of cases, they are attempted with disastrous results. Obviously a complete set of irons, properly graduated and mathematically worked out, will prove of the greatest aid in cutting off strokes, and it is with this in mind that we have produced the Kro-Flite Irons.

Starting No. F1 Driving Iron with a $\frac{5}{8}$ of an inch pitch of face, we have increased in pitch the succeeding clubs $\frac{1}{8}$ of an inch each, making No. F2 Mid Iron $\frac{3}{4}$ of an inch, No. F3 Mid Mashie $\frac{7}{8}$ of an inch, and No. F4 Mashie Iron 1 inch. These will take care of what might be called the long and middle distance shots. For the short game, No. F5 Mashie starts with a $1\frac{1}{4}$ inch pitch, No. F6 Mashie Niblic $1\frac{5}{16}$ inch, No. F7 Pitcher $1\frac{1}{2}$ inch, and No. F9 Niblic $1\frac{3}{4}$ inch. So much for the distances.

Now, as the pitch increases, there is a standard increase in the weight of each head, which is offset by a corresponding decrease in the length of the shafts, which means that each club has the same "balance" and "feel" as the preceding one, and, in addition to this, each of the first five numbers, F1, F2, F3, F4 and F5 have exactly the same shaped head, varying only in width of face. In other words, instead of playing one shot with a long narrow blade, and the next with a short wide one, each shot is played with a club that "feels" and "looks" behind the ball just as did the preceding one. Certainly this is bound to result in a familiarity that breeds confidence.

Another point—did you ever hit a base ball at the end of the bat? Remember the sting? Well, a golf iron rounded too much at the nose will give exactly the same sensation. Therefore, by extending the nose a trifle and getting the weight beyond the point of contact, as in the Kro-Flite line, we secure that "sweetness" of "feel" that helps make golf a joy forever.

It is no exaggeration to say that probably eighty per cent. of the golfers in the country do not face their club right in addressing the ball. The angles of the different blades being more or less confusing and off play or poor trajectory results. The Kro-Flite marking (patent applied for) is an index that directly catches the eye the minute the ball is addressed, the index line being a prolongation of the center line of the shaft. Squared to the line of play, your hands naturally fall to the right position—your blade lies right for the shot, and "direction" is improved to a very considerable degree.

A prominent Western golfer, when first shown the club, said: "I consider that the greatest step forward in club construction in years." Try it, and be convinced.

Cap the foregoing with a most rigid selection of shafts, a most careful and expert workmanship, and the last word in golf club manufacture has been said.

Spalding "Seely" Patent Irons

When ordering, mention "Seely" patent. Patented May 14, 1912.
The hosel portion, or shank of the iron head, is split or forked to accommodate the shaft, as shown in illustration. Models supplied: Cleek, Mashie, Mid Iron, Driving Iron, Pitching Mashie, and Jigger. Shafts of selected second growth hickory. Grips specially prepared calf. Each, $6.00

Spalding "Dedstop" Irons

While the special "feature" of these clubs is the very deep scoring in the face, the models are special selections which have proven most satisfactory in actual play. Supplied in Niblic and Mashie Niblic. Each, $5.50

SPALDING WOMEN'S GOLF CLUBS

We have designed the first real set of irons particularly adapted to the average woman's stroke, the blades being modeled long, narrow, and heavy at the sole so that the stroke played by the average woman will produce the same degree of pitch and clear "get away" that follows the shot played by a man where the club passes through the turf.

This special set of women's clubs consists of Mid Iron No. 12W, Mashie No. 15W, Mashie Iron No. 14W, Niblic No. 19W, Putters Nos. 1W and 6W. The Mashie is more orthodox in its lines because of the variety of lies and strokes that this club is called to negotiate. After producing and testing these clubs we feel they may be heartily recommended to women players. Specially prepared leather grips.

Spalding Hand Ball Gloves

To obtain the best results from the use of Spalding Hand Ball Gloves and especially the patented No. B style, partially close the hand so the fingers are at right angles to the palm; by this action the palm of the glove is pressed against the palm of the hand, pushing out any air that might be between the glove and the hand; smoothing out the flesh of the hand, which gives a striking surface without the "cushion" effect, a detriment to really fast and correct hand ball play.

DUMB BELLS

Spalding Spring Grip Dumb Bells

Manufactured by A. G. Spalding & Bros.

These dumb bells are made in two halves connected by steel springs—as specified in the Sandow patent, which expired August 8, 1916—the effort necessary in gripping, making it necessary to continually devote the whole mind to each movement. This concentration of will power on each muscle involved is what is responsible for the great results obtained through properly exercising with them.

BOXING GLOVES

Spalding "Championship" Boxing Gloves

Used and endorsed by all Champions of the World since the days of John L. Sullivan.

Made in 4 sizes, 10, 8, 6 and 5 ounce. Leather is specially tanned for this particular type of glove. Best hair filled, patent palm grip, palm lacing, padded wrist. Spalding boxing gloves were used almost exclusively to train our boys to take their part in the world war. We supplied twenty thousand sets for use in the training camps in this country and behind the lines abroad. Every set we furnished carried the full Spalding guarantee and gave the same faithful service that Spalding gloves have given continually during the past thirty-five years.

SPALDING CHAIN BELT ROWING MACHINE

Operated Just Like Rowing a Boat

Suitable Alike for the Athlete or the Ordinary Man or Woman

No. 600

No. 600. The ideal boat for home use and training purposes. Brings the exercise usually obtained on river or lake into the home or bedroom. Fitted with roller seat and adjustable shoes to fit either a tall or a short person. Thumb-nut arrangement controlling belt allows more or less friction to be thrown into the running parts, imitating the resistance which exists when forcing a row boat through the water. The resistance may be reduced for the weaker sex or increased to suit the strongest athlete. Oars are pivoted in such a way that operator can handle and turn them same as he would during the return and feathering motion with a boat oar. Floor space required, 6 x 5 feet. Each, $60.00

SPALDING FRICTION ROWING MACHINE

No. 119

No. 119. The means used to produce the resistance is a simple friction clutch, which takes instant hold at the commencement of the stroke and retains the pressure till its completion, when it instantly releases it, precisely as in a boat. Quickly taken apart without loosening any bolts or screws. Each machine is adjustable to any amount of friction or resistance. Do not use oil on friction cylinder. If its action is not perfectly smooth a little clear soap rubbed on its surface will properly correct its action. Floor space required, 4 1/2 x 4 1/2 feet. Complete, $40.00

Spalding Adjustable Doorway Horizontal Bar

Spalding Adjustable Doorway Horizontal Bar

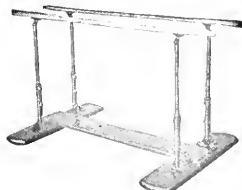

No. A. Bar of selected hickory, having steel tubular ends into which iron sockets screw, holding rubber cushions. The socket on one end contains a left-hand thread, on the other end a right-hand thread. By fitting the bar in the door and turning it with the hands the ends are made to expand, and the friction applied by the rubber against the sides of the doorway is sufficient to sustain the weight of a heavy man. This bar may be used for chinning exercises, being adjustable to any height, also for abdominal work. Size of doorway in which bar will be used must be stated when ordering, as the adjustment is not great enough to meet all requirements in one size bar. Each, $10.00

This No. A Bar is supplied regularly to fit any doorway under 33 inches in width.

Bars to fit wider doorways. Extra, 60c.

Should not be used in doorways wider than 42 inches. If length more than 42 inches is required, it would be advisable to use a regular horizontal bar. Various styles listed below.

Spalding Home Parallel Bar

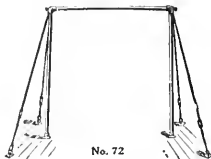

No. 101P. Adjustable in height. Base is of hard wood, the uprights are iron and free from any dangerous projections or corners. Hand rails 8 feet long, regular, but may be furnished in any desired length at additional cost. Floor space required, 8 ft. by 4½ ft. Complete, $70.00

No. 102. Similar to the No. 101P, but not adjustable. Floor space required, 8 ft. by 4½ ft.

Complete, $60.00

HOW TO ATTACH ICE SKATES TO SHOES PROPERLY

1. Place skate loosely on shoe in proper position.
2. Mark places for holes on sole of shoe centrally, to conform accurately to holes in foot and heel plate of skate.
3. Bore one hole first at extreme end of toe plate; then one hole at extreme end of heel plate, diagonally opposite hole at toe.
4. Put in one screw in either of these extreme holes of the toe or heel plate, drawing skate close to shoe, but not tight, then put in other extreme end screw, but before tightening either of these screws be sure the skate is in the proper position on shoe and that the runner is not bent. These two screws may then be tightened.
5. After the skate is held firmly by these two screws the other screws may be put in, alternating the toe and heel screws and screwing down tightly, one at a time.

If these instructions are carefully followed the skate runner will be straight, which is of the utmost importance, and if the skate has been set in the proper position on the shoe—so that the runner centers on the ball of the foot and the heel—the skater should have no trouble on the ice.

The size and style of screw best adapted for attaching skates to shoes is $\frac{3}{8}$ x 8, round head, which are furnished by us with skates.

In riveting skates to shoes, follow same method as explained above, except substituting rivets for screws.

SPALDING SKIS

All Spalding Skis are made in accordance with the latest ideas of the most expert ski men, of the best hickory and ash obtainable. The skis are sawed, not bent, with the grain running to the back so as to offer no resistance. Harness and adjusting straps, etc., are of most approved designs, a variety of styles being supplied as noted in descriptions.

HOW TO SELECT A SKI

"Among the experts of the North, the length of the ski is generally determined by stretching the hand over the head and selecting a pair that reach to the wrist. 'Long' ski would be to where the fingers bend at the second joint; 'short' ski to six inches over the head. For general use, the short ski is best; short, stiff-legged people should select a short ski. Long skis are best only on level stretches and flat country."—From Spalding's Athletic Library No. 25R—"Winter Sports," 25 cents a copy.

HOW TO MEASURE FOR ATHLETIC SHOES

Running Shoes, Jumping Shoes, Hurdling Shoes, and Pole Vaulting Shoes are usually worn without stockings; take measurements over bare feet. All other athletic shoes are worn with stockings; take measurements over stockings. Take measurements as directed below and send with your order. Don't Rush! Be Careful!

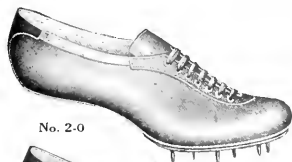

In sitting position draw outlines of feet, both the right and left, measuring over stockings or bare feet as required, according to style of shoe; then, with tape measure, drawing same tight, measure ball, waist, instep, heel and ankle, as shown in cut.

IMPORTANT—Hold pencil perpendicularly all around the foot, especially at back of heel and at end of great toe.
